The two men who have been appointed by the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist Party to organize political refugees of satellite countries are Dusan Mugosa, who is in charge of organization procedure, and General Svetozar Vukmanovic-Tempo, who is entrusted with problems of a para-military nature. 2. Satellite committees which to date have been established in Yugoslavia include the following:
 - a. League of Albanian Refugees, which has headquarters in Prizren, and comprises approximately 5,000 emigres. Officials of the League are listed as follows:

- d. Committee of Rumanian Refugees, which has headquarters in Svetozarevo, and which comprises approximately 750 emigres. It includes the following officials:
- 1) President: Radu Flora;
 - 2) Pol. Commissar: Gheorghe Jug; and
 - 3) Organizational Secretary: Dimitri Gheorghe.
3. Committees for other satellite countries which are in the formative phase are listed as follows:
- a. Bohemian Committee with Leo Hobenjak in charge;
 - b. Slovak Committee with Andrea Fekete in charge; and
 - c. Russian Committee with Ljubomir Takac in charge.
4. The propaganda activities of the pro-Tito committees are carried on over Yugoslav radio stations, and the press, as well as by means of pamphlets and brochures which are distributed clandestinely in satellite countries during operations of infiltration. The ultimate aim of the committees is the creation of a "Union of Federative Republics of the Balkans and the Danubian Basin," with Belgrade as the capital. These committees are thoroughly opposed to the nationalist committees created by refugees who have escaped to the West, who are considered by them to be "old reactionaries."
